

Tucson & Arizona

Wednesday, July 18, 2001

Tucson Citizen

CITY EDITOR, WILLIAM G.

Harvest of honor

XAVIER GALLEGOS/Tucson Citizen

John Arnold, chief executive officer at Project PPEP, stands with La Tortuga, a 1957 Chevrolet bus that served as a mobile school for children of farmworkers, and a portrait of the late Cesar Chavez, the famed labor organizer and farmworker rights advocate, who was born in Arizona.

Farmworkers getting own Hall of Fame

By BLAKE MORLOCK
Citizen Staff Writer

workers in southern Arizona. Johnson, who is African-American, and two dozen others community where Johnson grew up.

The cabin was not far from

It was the crop Johnson spent 22 years picking for $3 a 100-pound sack.